Business Situation Is Not Up to the Best Standard

Owing to Readjustment of Wages and Prices.

BRIGHT SPOT NOTED

In the Increased Demands for Hands on the Farms.

Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: ble weather accelerated retail distriution of merchandise, but there is no ductions in wages have occurred, particularly at textile plants. There is an increased demand for farm hands and some disputed wage scales have been signed, but little change can be discerned in the total number of unemployed. Postponed structural work is started very slowly.

Only a moderate tonnage of pig iron has been taken during the past week and merchants furnaces have made concessions in order to get business, but the meeting of iron products has tended to steady the market. Some sales for export are recorded, althugh much less foreign business has been consummated than was at first stated. ummated than was at first stated. Turnaces in the Pittsburg region pro-luce a little more freely but new orduce a little more freely but new orders are not as frequent as during the first three months of the year. In finished steel the lighter lines, such as tin plate and wire products, still command most attention and there is considerabe business pending in pipe for oil interests on the Pacific coast. The markets for textile goods are better because more bills are being discounted but jobbers are doing a limited busibecause more bins are being discounted but jobbers are doing a limited busi-ness and reports from roadmen are not gratifying. The chief drawback in the botton goods situation is the question of quotations, concessions being grantso readily that purchasers are natrally confined to immediate needs, egotiations for cotton goods that were ring consummation have been drop ped because of the further severe fall in price of raw material. There is no encouragement in the outlook for exrt trade in the near future. As to e woolens, the demand for certain criptions of men's wear continue but duplicate orders for fall ogods still await results from clothiers' salesmen on the road. Demands are most urgent for brown and tan fancy worsteds in lightweight spring goods.

Footwear markets at the east are quiet, the jobbing demand from all sec-tions being backward. Factories at the west, especially St. Louis, are cutand the large buyers of hemiock sole secure deliveries at about one cent below the prices current a few weeks ago, More business is recorded in belting butts, but sales are still on the basis of 35 cents, and some not quite up to standard have sold a full cent lower.

Trees lend their fragrance to the adjacent territory and is a sight to be witnessed but rarely.

unfavorable weather, is, on the whole, fair. Collections show light improvements at a few centers and filling in orders by jobbers are a trifle better but reports from leading industries are no more favorable, rather more weak cases are noted in iron and steel and fall trade in leading lines is still disappointingly backward. The duliness in building lines—expenditures for the building lines—expenditures for the first quarter being 40 per cent below 1907—affects all lines of materials and export and import trade are ebbing, indicating the first decrease in foreign ade from the preceding fiscal year sted for five years past. and steel markets and production is smaller than it was a few weeks ago. Business in pig iron is very light, and lower prices have been made to attract even the small business going. Finisheven the small business going. Finished iron and steel are likewise quiet and rail orders are only fair. Plates are exceptionally dull and fabricators of structural material, particularly in the Chicago district, have named some low quotations on business recently booked although there is no evidence that the shapes have brought lower than list prices. Demand for structural material is fair, track elevation and rail-road bridge building causing the bulk of the business. Bar iron is weak and this adversely affects steel bars. In fact, the widespread expectation of lower prices seems to have superinduced a waiting mood of the purchasers in general, but the leading producers insist that prices will be maintained.

evidence of increased activity in pre-paration for future business, nor are manufacturers disposed to operate more extensively. In fact, some net curtall-ment of output is noted, and more re-ductions in wages have occurred, par-ticularly at textile plants. There is an increased demand for farm hands Wheat, including flour, exports from 1901-02.

Corn exports for the week are 292,-938 bushels, against 545,714 last week and 1,593,622 in 1907. For the fiscal year to date the exports are 43.244,058 bushels, against 58.000,201 in 1906-07.

While this ten acre tract is not primarily a flower gar-den it resembles such more than anygry of Topeka. The frost of two weeks ago nipped some of the early buds, but an inexperienced eye can hardly detect a stem which has robbed of its share of bloom,

The sight is an unusual one and well worth a trip to Oakland especially as the orchard can be reached by taking a street car which passes withi na stone's throw of the flower To reach the orchard take street car at Sixth and Kansas nue and get off at the corner of Lo-gan and Division street and you are there. Mr. Sardou or some repre-sentative will be on hand to meet you and welcome you to the "thing beautiful" of the season.

"The fruit will commence to ripen the first week in June," said Mr. Sardou, "and I expect to market at least three thousand crates of cher-ries from the orchard and every crate will be disposed of in Topeka There is a chance of course that this estimate is too high, for a high wind or frost might play havoc with the entire crop. Cherries are very ten-der for the first ten days after the fruit commences to form and we are now in a danger period for the late killing frosts almost always come during the full moon period.

At the Play Last Night. W. S. Hart, who is now playing the title role in "The Virginian," which was made rather famous by Dustin Farnum, showed at the Grand last night where the piece was produced before a good sized audience, that he is not much of an actor. Perhaps it would be better to say that he is too much of an actor. He over-does every bit of character drawing that falls to his lot and thereby spoils it. He has all sorts of terribly promi-nent mannerisms that are anything but pleasing. And his smile of bashfulness, or rather grin, is actually hideous. Mr. Hart does much much better in Shakesperian productions in several of which he has been seen in Outside of the work of Mr. Hart which seemed to please a few of the audience who were in the gailery, the production of "The Virginian" was an adequate one. Miss Anne Meredith was a good Molly Wood and Frank Campeau, who created the part of Trampus was fine. He is far and away the best actor in the company. "The man that invented whisky was a great man," declared Thomas Lonegan to Sergeant Ross when brought in last night on a charge of drunk and vagrancy. This morning the prisoner confided to the jailer that the man that invented water was the greatest man in the world.

W. S. Plummer and G. E. Smith, druggists, were tried in police court yesterday on the charge of selling co-caine illegally. Plummer was dis-charged and Smith was found gullty charged and Smith was found gullty on one count and fined $50 and sentenced to 30 days in jail. He appealed the case. This was the first trial in police court under the cocaine ordinance passed last December. The increasing number of dope fiends in the city last fall caused the council to take some sters to stor the reckthe city last fall caused the council to take some steps to stop the reckless sale of this drug. The police had a dozen witnesses in this case and they were all colored people addicted to the use of cocaine. The court room was filled with a nondescript lot of people when the cases against these druggists was called. The trial was not without interest. Jesse Harris, one of the witnesses, was under the influence of the drug while on the stand. She was wild. She said she had bought cocaine in one of these stores, but could not identify either of the defendants. The other witnesses the defendants. The other witnesses were confused and uncertain in their the defendants. evidence. All admited that they were in the habit of buying cocaine.
Teenie Stammers, an old negro woman, declared that she had bought a fifty cent package of the drug from Smith. Anna Lee, another negress, said she had bought a $1.50 package at the Smith drug store, but could not remember the date. In spite of the lowly condition and color of the witnesses in yesterday's trial, it is a fact that the selling of cocaine without a prescription given by a doctor of good repute is a terrible crime against society—worse by far than selling whisky by the barrel. Cocaine numbers more men than women among its victims. Its effects are worse than whishy and its critical in the critical in its victims. Its effects are worse than whisky and its grip on all who use it incomparably stronger.

Cities generally over the country are recognizing cocaine as a new evil to be dealt with and are taking steps to suppress its sale. In New York city recently it was developed in the trial of a druggist that mothers had pawned their wedding rings and lockets containing their babies' pictures for this drug. The use of this drug has lately spread to alarming proportions. Topeka has an ordinance has lately spread to alarming proportions. Topeka has an ordinance against the selling of cocaine except by regular prescription. Everybody should co-operate with the police in enforcing this law to the letter. It was also developed in the trial that other Topeka people much higher in the station of life than the poor negro witness in court were addicted to the use of this drug.
